

Attorney CJ Czaia

Czaia Law Firm

Growing up the son of a Foreign Service officer, CJ spent his early years traveling the world following his father's postings. This experience, living in many foreign countries and experiencing many different cultures, created an appreciation for our great nation and impressed upon CJ the importance of immigrants to the foundation of the United States. One of the rarest gifts the government bestows on her citizens is the right for all the United States citizens to rally against abuse or oppression of the government, the wealthy, insurance companies, and corporations.

CJ worked as a public defender in the 12th Judicial Circuit Court in Manatee, Sarasota, and DeSoto Counties. He firmly believes that by defending the rights of individuals against the government, we ensure that the checks and balances built into our Constitution by the Founding Fathers work for all citizens. While in private practice, CJ initially focused on criminal law. He worked on thousands of cases successfully winning many of them, including murder cases. Later, CJ began incorporating personal injury cases to his practice, which today constitutes the bulk of his cases. CJ has recovered millions of dollars for his clients, with one of the most recent settlements being over $5 million dollars for our client.
