

KATHERINE EDWARDS

Retired Scientist and Engineer
Local Community Activist
Member of the LGBTQ Community

Katherine is a retired scientist and engineer with degrees in Physics from Georgia Tech, MBA from USF and Marine Geology and Geophysics from University of Miami. She is currently a local community activist and a member of the LGBTQ community.

Her education has enabled her to work throughout the world. The exposure to multiple cultures (and biases) broadened her experiences of discrimination and civil rights violations. And as a white, transgender woman; she has experienced the best and worst of both.
