

Adriana Guzman-Rouselle,. Esq.

Attorney

Adriana Guzman-Rouselle, Immigration Attorney., P.A.

Adriana was born in Bogota-Colombia where she received her law degree from the University Externado de Colombia. In her native country, she had the opportunity to practice in different fields of law including criminal, family, real estate and contracts. Adriana worked with the government in her country in the office of the Attorney General and then worked as in-house counsel for Exxon Colombia.

She has been residing in the United States since 1992, first in New York where she attended law school at the Syracuse University College of Law and obtained her New York State Attorney's license. She practiced law in New York State for almost three years as a public defender, representing clients in family and criminal law. She moved to Florida, where she attended Stetson University College of Law and obtained her diploma as Jurist Doctor.

Mrs. Guzman-Rouselle's practice is exclusively dedicated to Immigration Law. She created her Immigration law firm in 2005, representing clients before all the immigration authorities and Immigration Courts around the country.
